Introduction of the Service Learning Project
 The service-learning project is about IGiftLife where the NGO is focused on spreading awareness about Organ Donation.

Description of the Service Project
 We were assigned with two projects for 3D animation, where first project was regarding brain death animation, and the second was regarding awareness about the organs that can be donated.

Objectives of the Service Learning Project
The team is helping the NGO by creating this animation to spread awareness about organ donation, explaining brain death.

Methodology of the Service Learning Project
The project was made using blender software which is free and opensource software which is used to create 3D animation and also for sculpting models.
For creating the animation, we used opensource models.

Learning Outcomes of the Service Project
We were able to learn about 3-D animation, how it works, made models with basic skills, used the most common modifiers to enhance their models, create a simple Animation with the help of the timeline and render an image, Use the blender interface, apply materials to an object and change the color and specular reflection of that material.

Implications of the Service Learning Project
The idea of Animation had interested me before this project began. I had always been curious about how animators can move shapes and make scenes appear very realistic. This project helped me to understand the whole procedure of creating a 3D animation using basic animation needed for this project.

Obstacles/Impediment while working on the Service Learning Project
When beginning use Blender, the largest difficulty for myself, with lack of help information. But I referred some YouTube videos and channels. While using the software it used to hang a lot while adding specific models for the animation.
